

Jack Evans, Jr

Jack Evans, Jr. is a respected and seasoned minister whose life has been devoted to preaching, teaching, and advancing the work of the church for nearly five decades. Now 65 years old, he has faithfully served in ministry for 47 years, combining both practical experience and academic preparation as a graduate of Southwestern Christian College (SwCC) and Abilene Christian University (ACU).

He currently serves as the minister of the East Cotton Street Church of Christ in Longview, Texas, where he continues to pour into the lives of individuals and the broader community. Before this role, he ministered for 23 years at the Lake Como Church of Christ in Fort Worth, Texas, leaving a lasting impact through his leadership and preaching.

In addition to his congregational work, Evans dedicated 33 years of service to Southwestern Christian College in Terrell, Texas, helping to shape and influence generations of students and leaders. His voice has also reached far beyond local congregations, as he is recognized as both a national and international evangelist within the Churches of Christ.

A devoted family man, he is married to Vicky Evans and is the proud father of three children and grandfather to eight grandchildren. Beyond the pulpit, he is the author of several books and enjoys life outdoors as an avid hunter, fisherman, and rancher.

Through decades of faithful service, Jack Evans, Jr. has become a trusted and influential figure, known for his unwavering commitment to ministry, leadership, and the spread of the Gospel.
